

CLAIMS

An improved structure of coil inductor wave filter magnet core, the features of which include a separator disposed on a double standoff center rod that is smaller than the said double standoffs, an accommodating space formed between 5 the lower ends of the said double standoffs, a minimum of one aligned locating notch disposed at the bottom section of the said double standoffs, and the said aligned locating notches disposed in the said double standoffs are respectively shunted to the two terminals of a reel switch.